

Thanksgiving Eve, Year C, 2013
St James Episcopal Church, St James NY

With all the readings that we have read tonight, we hear them mentioning about how thankful we should be for what God has given us. We should take the time on this special night and think of all the things that we are thankful for, besides what God has given us what others have done for us, and to thank the in our won special way for all they have given us.

When we think back to the first Thanksgiving the pilgrims thanked the Indians by celebrating a meal. In Deuteronomy, the people were told to sit down and feast with their priests, so tonight when we celebrate the feast with Raewynne, we should be thankful for all that she has done for us. For everyone here tonight - this is another family we will celebrate Thanksgiving with - it's a different thanksgiving - but still the same, we are thankful for it.
